PriceRite and NotifyRite

Automate price quotation and notification for both customers and prospects.

Axxis Software provides a single system with flexible buildup rules and price formatting to to eliminate manual work while growing your business among new and existing customers.

Market Challenge

Wholesalers need to generate price notifications for customers in a timely way. However, standard accounting systems don't allow customized quotations, so manual work is required, especially for prospects or new customers. As business grows, this process becomes unmanageable, time-consuming and prone to errors.

How We Help

PriceRite and NotifyRite are two key modules of Axxis Software automation that enable you to quote customers and prospects together with the flexibility to customize price buildup rules, format and delivery. Over the past 20 years, these powerful tools have continually evolved to incorporate customer's changing needs on real-world use cases.

Benefits

- Specify format and price buildup rules for each customer based on their preferences. Customize for individual sites

- Quote multiple prices for the same product on the same day based on terminal pick-up

- React quickly to market volatility by making mass mid-day price adjustments, including temporary margin changes across customer groups

- Tailor price quote buildup by customer/site using anything from cost plus, to complex formulas to index based pricing

- Calculate fuel only or delivered quotes including freight and tax

- Create optimum split load quotes locking down single terminal pricing for all products based on primary fuel source

- Deliver quotations via fax, email, FTP and other methods including smartphone formatted price messages

- Broadcast rack price quotes

Price Management

Automate the collection, normalization and assembly of rack, spot and other pricing data from various suppliers. Prices are passed through to PriceRite to automate the price build up and quotation process.

ContractRite

Capture and calculate contract prices. Use non-traditional price buildup rules, such as rolling averages, best-of, basket pricing and formulas to feed into PriceRite. Or, calculate your own supply price automatically and pass along to PriceRite for price quotation.

Private Markets

Publish customer-specific secured web portals that are fully configurable so that each customer has 24/7 price visibility, eliminating price check calls. In addition to pricing, the portal allows customer ordering and displays invoices, inventory and other important information.
